The Sheriff of Nottingham also loves Lady Marion and thinks of a plan to kill Robin Hood.

After Robin Hood arrested the evil Sheriff of Nottingham locked him up in the dark, chilly Maze of the Dungeon. He fled back to Sherwood Forest with Lady Marion, "Goodbye, lousy Sheriff, you can have a rest after you have been arrested, ha ha ha..."

When Robin and the lady were gone, the Sheriff murmured under his breath angrily, "This isn't over, Robin Hood. I will take Lady Marion back and rule Nottingham FOREVER!"

In the woods, Little John and Friar Tuck were carefully holding the Golden Ball made of pure gold when the whole gang of merry-men arrived riding brown horses, some of them drew their swords, while others held bows and arrows. Suddenly, Robin Hood and Lady Marion appeared on a white horse, and the whole gang of merry-men cheered loudly for the return of their leaders, yet...

Meanwhile, the evil Sheriff had broken out of his prison cell, and slowly found his way out of the maze and called his whole army, "It is high time we should attack Sherwood forest in search of Lady Marion and kill that absolutely no-good Robin Hood! Attack!" His army obeyed his command immediately and started marching towards the woods, determined to find Robin Hood and capture him, the indispensable part to success the evil plan of the powerful Sheriff of Nottingham.

While Robin and his gang were celebrating in the woods, two people from the merry-men ran towards Robin, who was telling jokes to Little John, and warned him the army of the Sheriff's was about to strike them any second. Robin immediately stopped talking, and bellowed, "Brave merry-men! Draw your swords, pull back your bows and put on arrows! Prepare to fight the evil Sheriff of Nottingham!" The whole gang of merry-men yelled and stamped their feet as they pulled out their weapons and ran into the wild forest. Little John was pulling on a suit of armor when Robin called him, "Little John, protect Lady Marion while we defeat the Sheriff!" And then Robin set off.

On the battlefield, the Sheriff was dueling Friar Tuck because of Tuck's betrayal when Robin arrived riding a white horse, the whole battlefield fell silent as Robin pulled out his sword, "Sheriff, I have a gift for you..." He said. The Sheriff rubbed his hands greedily when he heard these words, "A gift? For me?" Then Robin presented the Sheriff the gleaming sword he had been holding, the Sheriff reached out his hands and grabbed it instantly, but...BOOM! The sword exploded into colourful whips of small fireworks and ash, the Sheriff, who's face was full of soot, was taken aback by this and he only realized what was happening when Robin pulled out his real sword with the name "Robin Hood" engraved on the silvery blade. The Sheriff was mad and he ordered his army to retreat, "You won this time, Robin Hood, but I'll be back! One day, I will really rule Nottingham forever!" Then, the evil Sheriff and his army fled from Nottingham and was never seen ever again.

King Richard was restored as king after this event and he named Robin Hood as the new Sheriff of Nottingham in order to thank him for defeating the evil Sheriff, and Robin Hood, Little John, Lady Marion, Friar Tuck and the whole gang of merry-men lived happily ever after.
